Donor Honor Roll Stories:
The Gift of Service

Service learning is a method of teaching that combines classroom instruction with meaningful community service. At UNO, it takes the form of on-campus recycling and environmental responsibility projects, community service and professional support for local non-profits and the student-run UNO Service Coalition volunteer bank. Students apply learnings from their community work to the classroom, where teachers emphasize critical thinking and personal reflection while encouraging a heightened sense of community, civic engagement, and personal responsibility. The Joe W. and Dorothy Dorsett Brown Foundation made a five-year, $300,000 commitment to partner with the University’s Service Learning Initiatives.

The University has committed its own funding to this initiative in order to assure that this essential support from the Brown Foundation is fully integrated into the University’s efforts to recruit and serve students, as well as to engage with partners in greater New Orleans. In the next five years, the University will enhance and build upon existing service learning initiatives at UNO, as well as create new projects that will allow the University of New Orleans service learning program to flourish. With this substantial gift from the Brown Foundation as our keystone, the university will be positioned to deliver substantial benefits to our community partners, as well as provide significant learning experiences that create socially conscious leaders.

A Love for Each Other and UNO

Many couples throughout Louisiana can recount the moment they met at UNO and the many locations and events on campus that were the backdrop for their courtships. Edwin and Lorraine Burgard love each other and they love the University of New Orleans. Through they have known each other since 7th grade homeroom, and remained in the same homeroom throughout high school, they did not begin dating until they were students at UNO.

Edwin, a 1972 Accounting alumna and Lorraine, a 1965 Education alumna are both proud of their alma mater and show their pride through their generosity. They have supported the University as donors for several decades and even though the couple no longer resides in Louisiana, they remain close to UNO, helping to improve current students’ experience through consistent and generous support.

In 2013, Distinguished Alumni Tom Kitchen ’69, ’71, Susan O. Hess ’67, Greg Rigamer ’74, Gary Solomon ’79, Fr. Michael Kettenring ’71, John G. O’Connor, and Fr. Michael Kettenring ’79, and Gary Froeba ’75 exhibited exceptional leadership and dedication to UNO by issuing a matching challenge grant to encourage their fellow alumni and community members to support the UNO First annual challenge grant to encourage their fellow alumni and dedication to UNO by issuing a matching grant. Not only did they meet their $25,000 fundraising goal, which they matched 1:1, they inspired the UNO International Alumni Association to issue their own challenge as part of the 2,014 in 2014 alumni reengagement campaign.

The University of New Orleans Mace is carried before the Commencement Platform Party at each commencement ceremony as a symbol of authority in the Procession and Recess of new alumni. It was conceptualized by Professor Howard Jones, former Chairman of the Department of Fine Arts, and refined and executed by Doug MacCash, a graduate assistant working under his supervision. It was first presented on September 6, 1958 at the Academic Convocation commemorating the University’s September 5, 1958 opening ceremony.

It is especially fitting that Pierre and Cheryl Champagne, two fiercely passionate UNO alumni, donated the funds to restore the original UNO Mace and display it in the University President’s office. Pierre, a 1976 Engineering alumnus and his wife Cheryl, a 1972 Sociology alumna, each possess unrivaled school spirit. Because of their gift, the Mace, an important treasure capturing the composition, mission, and vitality of the University, received the care it deserves.
